Innovative Canadians for Change Announces Partnership with F12 Networks Inc.

Friday, November 30, 2012

Edmonton, Alberta – Innovative Canadians for Change (“ICChange”) announces the exciting partnership with F12 Networks Inc. (“F12”). F12 will assist by directly supporting one of ICChange’s projects, the Kibera Medical Record Initiative (“KMRI”), aimed at introducing an electronic medical record system (“EMRS”) in the slum of Kibera in Nairobi, Kenya. KMRI aims to improve the continuity of care in over 90 health facilities as well as create a network of referrals between clinics to ensure their sustainability.

ICChange is preparing to soft launch the pilot this week in Nairobi to ensure the software, hardware and network of the EMRS is functioning appropriately. The software will be implemented in the partnered clinics with a team on the ground supporting our local implementing partner Action Africa Help International.

F12, an I.T. support company based in Alberta, with a focus on managed services is collaborating on providing network design, support and testing capabilities prior to implementation of the software in Nairobi. Through a committed staff, they have donated their experience and time in testing and optimization of the software as well as used thin client computers and monitors for the clinics in Kibera. They are committed to providing technical expertise and staff for network implementation, support and guidance throughout the pilot implementation. F12’s expertise has expanded throughout the Alberta health community for the past eight years.

“We are thrilled to work with F12 Networks, whose eagerness to share its experience and expertise for KMRI truly highlights its philanthropic commitment to the community at large. The significant contributions made by F12 to KMRI underscore its impressive dedication to and passion for corporate social responsibility. The partnership between ICChange and F12 is paramount to ensure the success and sustainability of KMRI.” Phil Bach, KMRI Co-Project Manager, ICChange

“Every so often an opportunity arises that allows us to directly use our industry skills and expertise to contribute to a very worthwhile cause. The KMRI is exactly that. The ICChange organization requires support and guidance that is based around developing a long term technical strategy for the implementation of an efficient EMR system. Our participation in this initiative is something that will be life changing for the people of Kibera, and certainly for those involved.” Leanne Yeatman, Operations Manager, F12 Networks Inc.
